FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 25, 1862

Free Homesteads

The law granting public lands to citizens who will take possession of them will be likely to benefit many now on their way from the States to Oregon and Washington Territory, as well as others now residing in the State and Territory.

To be particular—who can take advantage of this munificence offered by Government?

We answer.—Any person, male or female who is over twenty one years of age and a citizen of the United States, or who not being yet a citizen, has made legal declaration of his intention to become one or who, being a citizen under twenty-one years of age is nevertheless the head of a family, or has spent fourteen days or over in the military service of the United States, and has never borne arms against the Federal Government nor given aid and comfort to its enemies, is entitled to enter and secure at any time after the 1st day of January next, any quarter section of the Public Lands of the United States which has hitherto been subject to private entry at the lowest price of $1 25 cents per acre.

When can citizens take possession of lands so as to secure them under the operation of the Homestead Law?

We again answer—that we see no practical difficulty in the way of any loyal citizen of the United States selecting and locating his quarter-section at once—to day—to morrow—any time. For, though the Homestead Act does not formally take effect till the 1st of January next, the Public Lands (that is, the Agricultural, not the Mineral) are and long have been open to pre-emption—that is, any loyal citizen is at liberty to select and settle any previously unappropriated quarter section, making his home upon it and entering his Pre emption claim at the proper Land-Office. This precludes any adverse settlement or claim upon that quarter section for the two years ensuing; and on the 1st of January next, or at any time within eighteen months thereafter, he can comply with the requisitions of the Homestead Act and secure the land accordingly. The first section of this act expressly prescribes that each settler may, on or after the 1st of January, 1864, enter any quarter section upon which he may have previously "filed a Pre emption claim"—which may be done at any time. If he has already bought or pre empted 40, 80, or 120 acres, and there is any unappropriated land adjoining him, he may pre-empt enough under this act to make up a full quarter-section of 160 acres.

For the land so taken, the settler is to pay $10 to the United States, and shall pay the legal fees of the Register and Receiver of the Land Office, which we believe are $[illegible] for each quarter-section entered—one half payable on making the entry, and the residue when his title is perfected by five years' actual settlement and cultivation and a patent issued. The land thus becomes just as thoroughly and perfectly the settler's as though he had bought and paid for it under the old system. Until he shall have perfected his title by five years' residence and cultivation he cannot sell it, nor is it liable meantime to alienation for debt, nor can it ever be taken from him or his family by legal process in satisfaction of any debt incurred previous to the issue of his patent as aforesaid. If he wants at any time during the five years' settlement required before a patent shall issue, to sell it or cut it up into town-lots, or use it for any speculative purpose, he must pay the full price hitherto asked for it, whereupon he can take out his patent and do as he pleases with the land.

Having perfected his title and received his patent, any settler can sell or dispose of his land just as though he had bought it. But he cannot now nor ever afterward pre empt and acquire by settlement ANOTHER quarter section—If he sells he must buy or go without—the object of the Act being to discourage Land Speculation to the utmost. One quarter section is all that any person can ever acquire under the provisions of this act.

What practical plan can our people adopt, who will come to this coast the present season, for ascertaining where land can best be had and which lands offer the [illegible] for settlement?

We suppose that emigrants will scarcely have time, after their arrival here the coming fall, to go out personally into the different parts of the State and Territory, and examine the lands with the view of locating farms under the Homestead Law. Most of them will be compelled to proceed at once to make arrangements to secure temporary homes, and subsistence for the approaching winter. What then can be done? We suggest that there be a meeting or meetings of those interested and that they select individuals in whom they have confidence, and let such be sent, and their expenses paid into different portions of the State and Territory, requiring them to make a thorough investigation of the best regions of country for settlement having done this to make due reports to their employers. This work can be accomplished in this manner without great expense and in a way likely to be satisfactory.

We know it will be said that there are lands in the Willamette valley enough for 100 000 additional population, but we fear that when a large emigration comes here, the prices of these lands most of which are now held as donation claims will be largely advanced and if our fears should be realized, emigrants will seek Government lands which they can take possession of under the Homestead Law and on which they can rear their future home. Should therefore the owners of these immense donation claims in Oregon either try to hold on to them to keep the country unsettled—to keep the roads unimproved, to deprive themselves of convenient schools and churches mills &c as we apprehend they will be likely to do,—we are sure, that while the Homestead Law exists on our statute books and Government lands can be found emigrants will not indulge our people in paying advanced prices for donation claims. Failing to find lands for homes in Oregon, they will turn their attention to our neighboring Territory and there on numerous streams of that Territory they will find, in many localities, rich upland prairie and bottom lands easily cleared and improved with fine timber, water power, navigable streams, equal in excellence to any part of the coast now in cultivation. We say therefore, to our friends in this valley, if they want good settlements and the advantages to be derived therefrom they must sell their lands at low prices; and in fact we think we could prove to them that the man who owns six hundred and forty acres of land could make money by giving away two thirds of his land to the right kind of settlers.

If the emigrant cannot suit himself in this valley, he has a most glorious resource in the Homestead Law—by means of which he can secure lands for himself and family in some other portion of the coast, where he can sit under his own "vine and fig tree" for years to come, in a home that cannot be taken from him or his family, by any adverse fortune.

FROM THE DALLES.—By private letter from the Dalles, dated July 22d, we learn that the man who was recently stabbed at Deschutes, died on Tuesday morning last. His name was Richard Anderson. The person who stabbed him, Thomas Taylor, is in jail to await his trial at the next term of Circuit Court. The writer further states that he saw that day, (22d) in the hands of John Campbell, of Washington county, two pieces of gold taken from Auburn Flat, Powder river, weighing respectively sixty seven and twenty-one dollars, reckoned at sixteen dollars to the ounce. Mr. Campbell says that his and other claims on the same gulch, are paying from $35 to $50 a day to the hand. Cooper & Co with the aid of four men, washed out in one day twenty five ounces. Another party who had just reached the bed rock, were washing out from $5 to $12 to the pan. On French Creek, four Frenchmen, with a rocker, from one day's work had $60. There are now in the Powder river country some five thousand men the greater portion of them engaged in prospecting. The great want of the miners is water, but with another season all difficulty on that score will be obviated.

The thermometer (Farenheit) stood at 102 degrees in the shade, at the Dalles, on the 22d. Rather hot.

We take the following items from the Mountaineer of the 23d:

TRANSPORTATION.—The repairing of the Cascades railroad is now completed and the arrangements are such as to admit of passing two hundred tons of freight over the road daily. With another week, it is expected that the capacity of the road will be equal to the transmission of three hundred tons daily. In that event the steamers Idaho and Hassalo will both be placed on the line. With all these facilities the Company will be able to deliver at our landing an average of eighteen hundred tons of merchandise per week. Beyond the Dalles the prospect for the transmission of freight is not so good. The rapid fall of water in the Snake river renders it probable that the boats will suspend their trips to Lewiston early in the month of August possibly it will be even earlier.

YREKA MINERS.—A party of Yreka miners having with them thirty two wagons have reached the South Fork of John Day. This is the party for whose safety fears were entertained. They had a hard trip and were on the point of abandoning their wagons when Capt Mulkey came to their relief and piloted them into the mines. The party numbered 105 men and 14 women. They were all well and out of 180 head of cattle had not lost a single head.

NEW STEAMER.—The steamer Dalles built at the Cascades, is now in running order. Her trial trip proved satisfactory. She will run between the Dalles and Cascades.

There are from five to six hundred men at or near Canyon Creek John Day's River and those who have got their claims open are doing well—getting from $[illegible] to an ounce a day to the hand. Provisions were getting very scarce and men were leaving the mines on account of not being able to obtain supplies. Every part of Canyon Creek that has been struck, yields good prospects.

From our Salmon River Correspondent

Letter No. X.

FLORENCE, July 14, 1862

Nothing of particular interest but as the Express goes out this morning I send you a line.

THE ELECTION

passed off yesterday in a quiet way. Two or three fights about the polls, but nobody wounded or killed. Fourteen hundred and thirty votes were polled. Everybody who desired it was permitted to vote but there were no obstacles to voting on either side. Everybody who went to the polls had a small but [illegible] attached and perhaps the only practical way of conducting the election was to let all vote who desired—and so the election here will not be the voice of the qualified voters but the expression of the preference of all here who chose to vote. Not over one third of the miners voted. The canvassers have been at work all night, but at this hour, 6 A M only one fourth of the vote is counted and so the result is not certainly known. The Union Democratic ticket it is supposed to have beaten the Union ticket by from one to two hundred majority. Standefer, the Democratic candidate for Sheriff is elected by perhaps two hundred majority. Bledsoe the candidate for Councilman on the Democratic ticket will probably carry this county by a small majority. The vote is close between Reed Democratic candidate for the Legislature and Clarke the Union candidate with probabilities in favor of Reed. Nez Perce county votes with this county for Councilman and so it is not known here who is elected but the chances are in favor of Smith the Union candidate.

AFFRAYS

Fights and affrays are so common as to excite little attention. Report says a man was shot night before last and the night before that a man was shot by his partner four times—in head, leg, side and arm—but will recover. No arrests are made, the doctrine being practically, if a body finds his way into a fuss, he must find his way out. No arrests are made because no complaints are made and no warrants issued. The officers here are generally efficient for a new county. The Sheriff, Standefer, though one of the "bloods" and 2 40 on the shell road, is a fair officer and has nerve and is generally liked here and in fact [illegible] is a clever fellow. One soon becomes accustomed to these frequent shooting affairs and acquires rather a relish for blood and soon learns to lap it like the dog.

Vice is a monster of such [illegible] mien
That to be hated needs but to be seen
But seen too oft, familiar with her face
We first endure then pity then embrace.

THE STEAMBOAT

Parties are returning daily from the late prospecting tour. A small company have struck diggings on one of the tributaries of French creek about sixty miles South of this place, and are working from $5 to $10 to the man, but the diggings are limited and at last advices only a dozen or two were at work. I saw a reliable man who is just in from a three weeks prospecting tour and he and his party went south of this place about 100 miles where they found a large and fertile valley about 60 miles long by 15 wide, and he says they found the color in the mountain sides around the valley, and the appearance of the country indicated gold, but that nothing rich had yet been struck. A part of the party are still out, and he is rather confident there are good diggings in that direction—Says owing to snow and high waters a month from this will be better for prospecting. I have seen letters from other parties out, but nothing rich struck yet, though all are rather sanguine of new diggings soon.

LONG FACES

Three men go out where one comes in, and this will continue to be the case, as hundreds here can get no work and the failure of water is stopping the working of claims daily. The long faces seen here would amuse if they were not so often worn by poor men who, worsted by the frosts and floods of the last eight months, are here to mend their broken fortunes, and have left those at home dependent on their labors and who are hoping to hear some good word from the mines. Prometheus we are told, deprived man of knowledge of the future and gave him hope instead. A wise and merciful provision doubtless, for who so bold as not to recoil with horror if he would but lift the veil and look into the future, now happily hid from view and yet thousands have left their homes and business for these mines who if they could have looked ahead, would have remained at home.

OBSERVER.

DOUBLE MURDERER.—The desperado Tom Taylor who stabbed Anderson at the Des Chutes last Saturday, immediately after cutting Anderson went and armed himself with a revolver and getting into another brawl shot another man through the head, the ball entering just below the right eye. The name of this last victim of Taylor's brutality is James Osborne. Taylor was arrested on Sunday morning by Sheriff White and as before stated, is now locked up in jail.

SMALL POX.—The following proper restriction has been adopted by the Board of Trustees of this School District:

Whereas, it is known that the small pox to some extent has existed for some time in the city of Portland, it is ordered by the Board of School Directors of School District No. 1, of Multnomah county, that after this date, such children as have had the small pox, or that reside in houses wherein small pox has existed, shall be discharged from the Public School by the Principal thereof, until such time as they shall produce a certificate that they have been convalescent and that there has no cases of small pox existed in the house for at least four weeks, and that their clothing and the house has been properly cleansed and purified.

A. C. R. SHAW,
Chairman of the Board of Directors.
Portland, July 23d, 1862.

THAT "BLESSED BABY,"—was the richest thing we have seen played upon the stage for many years. Mr. John Wood is certainly a first class comic artiste, and meets the universal praise of all who witness his sidesplitting mimicries. Miss Belle Divine fully sustains her position as a star actress, while Mr Harry Taylor is improving rapidly and ere long, if proper and continued application is pursued, will stand high in reputation. Max Irwin continues to present new and original amusements each evening, filling up quite a pleasant interlude. Miss C. Howard is also deserving of much praise, and we hope to see her advance in position. Taking the whole together, and judging from what we have thus far seen, we believe them to be a very fair company, fully as good as our city could expect under the present advantages. They will play again to-night, as seen by advertisement, which we hesitate not in saying will be well worth going to see.

ARRIVED.—As announced by us yesterday, Major Curtis' command, consisting of two companies of California Volunteers, arrived at Fort Vancouver on Wednesday evening last, from Fort Colville, en route for Humbolt Bay. We are informed the command lost about twenty men on the way down, by desertion. It is supposed the deserters have gone to the mines.

PIC-NIC.—We learn that a number of young ladies and gentlemen of the city enjoyed themselves delightfully in a pic-nic party, in a grove near the South-West part of the city, yesterday. We regret that we could not participate, as we doubt not we should have enjoyed the occasion muchly, and been highly pleased with the display of youth and beauty.

AN ITEM.—We saw an item of considerable dimensions comfortably seated upon the sidewalk in a public place last evening, and upon approaching the creature found that it had posted upon its back in large letters, "Full to the bung." Deeming it too weighty for us to manage, we left it, only regretting that our friend of the Advertiser was not "on hand" to Bail it out.

ARRIVED.—The Hunt arrived last evening about 6 o'clock from the Dalles, bringing down about 30 passengers but no news of importance. We are indebted to Wells, Fargo & Co. for copy of late Mountaineer.

WASHINGTON, JULY 16.—In the House, Bingham, from the Select Committee to whom was referred the President's message on gradual emancipation, reported a bill providing that whenever the President is satisfied that Maryland, Delaware, Kentucky, Tennessee or Missouri has adopted measures for the emancipation of the slaves throughout either or all these States, the President and Secretary of the Treasury shall deliver to such State bonds equal to the valuation of slaves according to the census of 1860, provided no compensation be made to any State which aided the present rebellion. The bonds to be delivered not to exceed an aggregate of one hundred and eighty million dollars. For the purpose of settling slaves beyond the limits of the United States, twenty million dollars are appropriated, to be expended in colonization, at the discretion of the President. The benefits of this Act are not to accrue to any State that does not pass a law for emancipation within five years after its passage. The bill also provides for complete emancipation within twenty years. Any State receiving bonds and afterwards tolerating slavery shall refund principal and interest. The bill was referred to the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union.

The House postponed until December the bill admitting Western Virginia.

A bill authorizing the President to contract with any foreign power to receive for colonization the captured Africans, passed.

The bill authorizing the President to call out the militia for not exceeding nine months, and for the employment of negroes, passed under the operation of the previous question.

NEW YORK, July 16.—The British steamer Ann has just arrived as a prize. She was discovered under the guns of Fort Morgan, Mobile bay, unloading cannon and gunpowder. The Susquehanna and the gunboat Kanawha sailed into the bay. The former engaged the fort, and the latter succeeded in cutting out the British vessel. The crew of the Ann deserted, after trying to sink her. The cargo consisted of gunpowder, arms, cartridges, etc.

MEMPHIS, July 14.—It is reported that part of the forces of Col. Fitch had an engagement, on the 6th, with a body of rebels numbering 450. The Federal force was 200. The rebels lost 84 killed, wounded and missing. The Federal loss was 20 killed and wounded.

In another engagement, on the 7th, Colonel Fitch took all the enemy's camp equipage and provisions. Both fights are said to have occurred within ten miles of Duval's Bluff, where it is reported a large number of rebels, under Gen. Hindman, are stationed.

From the Oregon Farmer

[While crossing a barren waste in Southern California under the burning rays of a summer noon, with naught to relieve the eye but patches of sage brush and grease wood my vision was kindly greeted with a few upright handsome flowers, standing in silent grandeur all bright and beautiful, lifting up their snowy petals exhaling a sweetness on the desert air." Ah! thought we Here is renewed evidence of the benificence of the Deity who never fails to bestow some marked impression of his love everywhere—even in the most barren and cheerless wastes trodden by the feet of wandering man. Surrounded by burning sands, deprived of rain and dew, it maintains a life full of fragrance and beauty, quite mysterious to me." S. B. [illegible]]

TAE DESERT FLOWER

BY S. B. [illegible]

Flower of the desert place,
Born on this dreary waste
Breathing thy sweetness o'er heather and lea
Emblem of happiness,
Strange is thy chosen place,
None to abide in the desert with thee.

Bright is thy rosy face,
Beaming with modest grace,
Unfolding thy charms of scarlet and white
Far from the city full
Ne'er taught at floral school,
Blest in thy desert home—full of delight

In thine arms holding up,
A bright goblet or cup,
Craving and courting but sunshine and air
Ne'er blest with dew or rain,
Never known to complain,
Content without favor, affection or care

Tell us how came thee here,
Tell, how many a year,
Thou hast resided on this barren waste,
With no hand to dress thee,
No heart to caress thee,
No eye to admire thy beauty and grace.

Perhaps from some highland,
Or fair tropic island,
Upborne by the wind's strong current along
Far back in the distance,
Two or three centuries since,
Wert brought to this place a captive of wrong

Or may be the Plover,
Or Curlew, or Roller,
With notions of wealth, or commerce, or greed,
Concluded to treat thee,
To a ride o'er the sea,
Then cast thee off here, deserted indeed.

Strange is thy history,
Stranger the mystery,
How thou dost flourish—the thing is so queer
On hard pebbles and sand,
Yet appareled so grand,
No dews to relieve—no water to cheer.

Sweet is thy breath of love,
Wafted to God above,
Else it were wasted, or spent on the air,
No soul here to share it,
No heart to prepare it,
A welcome all worthy a flower so rare

As stands the man of God,
Midst the wrangling horde,
Beaming with goodness—maintaining the right,
So mid the dreary waste,
In meek and modest grace,
Stands the lone desert flower—child of the light!

CUCUMONGA, June 15th, 1862.

Visions of Life.

> "Do what he will, he cannot realize
> Half he conceives—the glorious Vision flies:
> Go where he may, he cannot hope to find
> The Truth, the Beauty pictured in his mind."

Many dream away the morning of life, consoling themselves in the belief that its manhood will be filled with celestial joys. Nor do they see their true condition until life's setting sun begins to cast its evening shadows over the soul. Then discarding the elements of nature they seek to calm the troubled spirit in the enchanting visions of some land of lasting happiness. For man delights to be led by the imagination in the pleasant walks of ideal places, where there may be some joy afforded, or at least the sensual being be satisfied by some realized pleasure — When the scenes of life are obscured by the dismal clouds of misfortune, the mind will not rest on the turbulent elements around, but darts forth into the illimitable future, from which hope's genial rays may be reflected in all their enchanting beauty.

It is the activity of the mind that enables it to afford the greatest amount of true joys; for the many emotions which it can bring over the body, dispel the midnight darkness from the soul, and so illuminate the moral nature, that life seems to be removed from decaying scenes to rest on an immortal throne. The mind, in its fanciful visions, leads the sensitive being into the streams of pleasure, whose currents gently move beneath the chilling elements of nature from one being to another, till the man is lost in the realm of ideal joy, which youth's inspiring genius represents as unfathomable, and as enduring as truth itself.

The most engrossing desire of life is, that there may be some joy afforded that will exist when the light of day has passed away, and left all material things to moulder, and descend to nature's tomb. Men at times feel as though they were veiled in a mystic cloud, and that every ray of light was secluded from them; but when the meteoric flight of the imagination has passed, and dark clouds roll in its once bright path, there is a source of light that begins to emit its cheering rays within, that awakens the moral being, and opens new visions to the soul, that lift the thoughts beyond this boisterous sea of life, to the shores of some fair land, where the gloomy clouds of doubt are dispelled, and all things lit up with the radiant light of hope Man spends much of his time in a visionary view of joyous times that have passed; until the heart becomes sick at the terror that haunts the present. And thinking of misery to come, the buoyant spirit sinks beneath the thoughts that place phantoms between it and the happy land

The bloom of life may fade away, and its light be but dimly reflected on the future, but the mind which has been supported by truth and reason will send forth an influence that will cheer the desponding spirit with kindred emotions, to endure the toils of the present; for before the last ray of life can be extinguished, new hopes spring up in the soul that revive the fading bloom and calm the troubled waters of life It is natural for many to look at the present as being inferior to the past. They would gladly roll back the car of time, until the period of their ancestral renown should return, that they might gather from its glowing beauties hope to bear up their wearied spirits, until the dark clouds of calamity should pass, and the light of some fair time appear, when the valleys of earth would be clothed in the loveliness of peace

(To be concluded.)

A Fortunate Kiss

The following pretty little story is narrated by Frederica Bremer, who vouches for its truthfulness

In the University of Upsala, in Sweden, lived a young student, a noble youth, with great love for studies, but without the means of pursuing them. He was poor, without connections Still he studied, living in great poverty, but keeping a cheerful heart, and trying to look at the future, which looked so grim to him His good humor and excellent qualities made him beloved by his young comrades One day he was standing on the square with some of them, prattling away an hour of leisure when the attention of the young men became arrested by a young and elegant lady who, by the side of an elder one, was slowly walking over the place It was the daughter of the Governor of Upsala, living in the city, and the lady was Governess She was generally known for her goodness and gentleness of character, and looked at with admiration by all the students As the young men stood gazing at her as she passed on like a graceful vision one of them suddenly exclaimed

"Well it would be worth something to have a kiss from such a mouth"

The poor student, the hero of our story who looked on that pure angelic face, exclaimed as if by inspiration

"Well, I think I could have it"

"What" cried his friends, in a chorus "are you crazy? Do you know her?"

"Not at all" he answered, "but I think she would kiss me now if I asked her"

"What! in this place before all our eyes?"

"Freely?"

"Freely."

"Well, if she will give you a kiss in that manner, I will give you a thousand dollars!" exclaimed one of the party.

"And I"—"and I," exclaimed three or four others, for it so happened that several rich young men were in the group, and the bets ran high on so improbable an event The challenge was made and received in less time than we take to tell it.

Our hero (my authority tells not whether he was handsome or plain, I have my peculiar reasons for believing that he was rather plain, but singularly good looking at the same time,) immediately walked up to the young lady and said —

"Mine fraulein, my fortune is now in your hands."

She looked at him with astonishment, but arrested her steps. He proceeded to state his name and condition, his aspirations, and related simply and truly what had just now passed between him and his comrades

The young lady listened attentively, and at his ceasing to speak, she said, blushing, but with great sweetness.

"If by so little a thing so much good can be effected, it would be foolish for me to refuse your request;" and publicly in the open square she kissed him.

Next day the student was sent for by the Governor.' He wanted to see the man who dared to seek a kiss from his daughter in that way, and whom she consented to kiss

He received him with a scrutinizing bow, but after an hour's conversation was so pleased with him that he ordered him to dine at his table during his studies at Upsala.

Our young friend pursued his studies in a manner which soon made him regarded as the most promising student in the University.

Three years were now passed since the day of the first kiss, when the young man was alllowed to give a second kiss to the daughter of the Governor.

He, became later, one of the greatest scholars in Sweden, and as much respected for his acquirements as for his character His works will endure while time lasts among the works of science and from this happy union sprang a family well known in Sweden even at the present time, and whose wealth and high position in society are regarded as trifles in comparison with its goodness and love

Efficiency in Working.

A GOOD SEWING MACHINE

SHOULD BE WELL MADE, simple in its construction, and easily kept in order, should make a TIGHT LOCK STITCH, alike on both sides of the material, and should sew any and all materials that can be sewed

It should be able to use cotton, thread, or silk, directly from the spool, and to sew from coarse to fine, and from thick to thin, with rapidity, and without changing the tension It should also be able to make the tension greater or less, on both the under and upper threads and with uniformity, and should have a straight needle curved ones being liable to break

The needle should have perpendicular motion—this is absolutely necessary for heavy work

It should be able to bind with a binder, hem with a hemmer, should stitch, fell, run and gather, and should be always ready to work

It should be capable of using the same size thread on both sides of the work, and of using different colored thread or silk above or below to correspond with any two colors of cloth to be united

It should be able to make a long or short stitch, and to fasten off the seam, and commence sewing tightly at the first stitch, and to run easily, and make but little noise.

It should have a wheel-feed, no others are in constant contact with the work.

It should not be liable to get out of order, neither should it require a screw-driver or wrench to set the needle.

It should not be liable to oil the operator's dress.

It should not form a ridge on the under side of [illegible] ravel
